Jeff K. Brown - Partner

With nearly three decades of experience, Jeff serves as lead counsel in complex professional liability litigation throughout Kansas and Missouri. His practice focuses primarily on the defense of physicians, hospitals, and a broad spectrum of healthcare providers facing medical negligence claims—many involving high exposure, catastrophic injuries, or wrongful death.

Jeff is known for his strategic, detail-oriented approach and deep knowledge of the healthcare industry. He has successfully defended clients across the full spectrum of medical specialties and healthcare settings. His experience includes representing physicians and practice groups in nearly every area of medicine, as well as health systems, hospitals, rehabilitation centers, long-term care facilities, assisted living facilities, independent senior living communities, and mental health institutions. Jeff has also routinely defended individual healthcare professionals, including mental health providers, physician assistants, advanced practice nurses, registered nurses, and licensed practical nurses. His representation also extends to practitioners in specialized disciplines such as podiatry, osteopathic medicine, correctional healthcare, chiropractic care, and ophthalmology.

Jeff's comprehensive understanding of the legal, clinical, and regulatory challenges facing healthcare professionals enables him to deliver precise, effective legal solutions tailored to each client's unique circumstances. His consistent results and commitment to excellence have earned him the confidence of healthcare providers across the region.

A former native of Newton, Kansas, Jeff now lives in Olathe, Kansas with his wife and two sons.
